Steven Wesley Law : Polished before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Polished:

1 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy Alan TuttleExcellent writing with pure emotion and feeling. Took me to great places in my mind.0 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Lovely bookBy chick-a-plao!This book was lovely. It is the perfect distillation of Red Rock country and the perfect antidote to this miserable winter we've been having.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. C'mon, dude. You can't be serious.By Heather HLike a really bad Bill Bryson rip off.

Polished is a collection of poems born from more than thirty years of exploring and wandering the wild trails and rivers of the Colorado Plateau. Collectively, the poems paint an exuberant, image-rich story of a curious, observant young man seeking moments of wonder and beauty in his wild backyard. Sometimes reverent, sometimes joyful; always colorful and vivid.

About the AuthorSteven Law is a columnist for The Daily Herald, writing Gone, essays of his outdoor adventures. An avid backpacker and river runner, he worked eight seasons as a Grand Canyon river guide for Wilderness River Adventures, completing more than seventy trips. He lives in northern Arizona with his wife, Dana.
